VANAE JAMES-BEY

Introducing Vanae: A Young Author, Artist, and Cultural Ambassador (Great Peedee Dimery Tribal Nation).

Vanae embarked on her remarkable journey into the world of creativity at the tender age of 6 when she published her inaugural educational coloringbook. Collaborating closely with her supportive mother, she has since crafted a captivating series of coloring books tailored to delight children of all ages.

Vanae takes immense pride in her affiliation with the esteemed Yamassee Nation of Seminole, one of the oldest indigenous tribes in the United States.

With an insatiable curiosity for history and a passion for storytelling, Vanae revels in sharing fascinating insights into the enduring legacies of ancient peoples. Now at the age of 15, her ardor for art remains undiminished, fueling her aspirations to one day leave an indelible mark as a globally recognized artist.
